I ran across some really interesting numbers this week as I was doing the Looking Back section.

WIBC membership for the 1989-1990 season.

It has always been known and talked about that Michigan, and specifically Detroit is the bowling center of the US, however, I don't believe that I have ever looked up any membership stats to see how they ranked.

Well during the 1989-1990 season, the city with the most WIBC membership, was Detroit, MI with 79,639 bowlers, in 2nd place was Chicago, IL with 45,017, and 3rd was Minneapolis, MN with 30,371.

Amazing that there were so many more sanctioned female bowlers in Detroit than any other place in the country, like not even close. No city in the SW area cracked the top 10 by the way.

Here I was thinking that Texas membership must have been pretty big back in the day, but not so much. Texas was 6th in state tournament participants, with 2300, but Michigan led all with 4000, again, not even close.

I sure wish bowling would have remained as strong as it was a few decades ago, but it's a busy world out there, and people's interests change on a whim. Heck, eight months ago we all thought watching sports on TV was really important, or just watching TV in general, but viewership numbers are down for EVERYTHING, so what does keep our interest in the new world...

x-x-x-x-x-x

One thing that is on the rise is YOUTH bowling. At the very least YOUTH tournament bowling is very hot right now.

There are so many different youth scholarship tournaments out there these days that provide opportunities for young bowlers of different skill levels to compete.

As you will see in the paper this week, there was a new event last weekend, the Ballard Bowling Academy "The Experience" Youth tournament. The event had a scratch and handicap division, both were mixed, as is the norm these days.

The handicap event was won Madison Damer, who is my daughter Tori's teammate on her Saturday morning league. I remember talking with Madison's parents about scholarship bowling for youth bowlers a couple of years ago, as she was starting to get the itch for more competitive bowling. Now Madison is a freshman in high school, and goes out and wins her first big tournament and most importantly, $1100 in scholarship money.

We bowlers are so very fortunate to participate in a game where you can earn money for college, just by enjoying your passion, and getting better along the way.

We all need to recommend the game of bowling to our friends with young kids and we just might see those USBC membership numbers spike up again some day in the near future.

2021 USBC Championship Tournaments Schedule Announced

ARLINGTON, Texas – A new year is on the horizon, and that means exciting things for tournament bowlers and BowlTV subscribers.

The 2021 United States Bowling Congress event calendar again will include the traditional tournaments competitors of all ages and skill levels have grown to enjoy.

The tournament schedule and live BowlTV coverage will kick off with the USBC Team USA Trials during the first week of January.

The event originally was slated to take place in Las Vegas, but it now will be held in the Indianapolis area during the same time frame – Jan. 2-7. Complete details will be available next week.

The Team USA Trials will be followed by two high-profile events run in conjunction with the Professional Bowlers Association – the 2021 U.S. Open and USBC Masters.

The U.S. Open tentatively is scheduled for Feb. 21-28 at The Ashwaubenon Bowling Alley in Green Bay, Wisconsin, and the Masters is slated for March 29-April 4 at the Gold Coast Bowling Center in Las Vegas.

Both sets of dates are subject to change based on the schedule and programming for the PBA and its TV partner, FOX Sports, while locations and entry maximums also can change due to recommended best practices, social-distancing protocol and other COVID-19 restrictions.

“We’re excited to get back to doing what we love, and that is putting on top-tier events for all of our USBC members, but we also know we must do so cautiously and responsibly, because the safety of the competitors is our top concern,” USBC Executive Director Chad Murphy said. “The 2021 schedule has something for every segment of our bowlers, and we’re really looking forward to sharing the year’s most memorable moments with bowling fans around the globe through BowlTV.”

Both the U.S. Open, a collaborative effort between USBC and the Bowling Proprietors’ Association of America, and the Masters, again will be considered majors on the PBA Tour schedule. Qualifying and match play for both will be livestreamed on BowlTV, before the action shifts to Fox Sports.

Invitations for the U.S. Open will be going out this week, and registration now is open for the pre-tournament qualifier, an on-site event that will give those who did not earn direct-entry into the tournament a chance to make the elite field. More information can be found at BOWL.com/USOpen.

The 2021 U.S. Open will feature 108 of the world’s best bowlers, most of whom earned their spots in the event based on their recent on-lane performances. The list includes leaders on the PBA Tour points list and top performers at USBC events and PBA majors.

The U.S. Open format features qualifying across multiple oil patterns and round-robin match play, before the top five competitors advance to the TV stepladder, based on their 56-game pinfall totals.

The Masters generally attracts hundreds of the sport’s top competitors for 15 games of qualifying over three days, before the field is cut to the top 63, plus the defending champion, for a unique double-elimination match-play bracket that features three-game matches.

The 2020 U.S. Open was held in Lincoln, Nebraska, in February and won by Australia’s Jason Belmonte for the 12th of his record 13 major titles. The 2020 Masters was canceled in 2020 due to COVID-19. Left-hander Jakob Butturff won the event at Gold Coast in 2019.

Along with the U.S. Open and Masters, the format, location and entry maximums for all 2021 USBC tournaments are subject to change based on the recommended best practices and social-distancing protocols as the start date of each tournament approaches.

The dates, sites and start of registration for each USBC short-duration event in 2021:

- Jan. 2-7: USBC Team USA Trials – Western Bowl and Expo Bowl, Indianapolis (registration opened Sept. 8)
- Feb. 21-28 (tentative): U.S. Open – Ashwaubenon Bowling Alley, Green Bay, Wis. (registration opens Oct. 28) *Dates are subject to change w/PBA and FOX Sports scheduling/programming.
- March 9-13: USBC Senior

PWBA Tour Schedule Expands to 20 Events and Introduces Classic Series, All Live on BowlTV

By: Aaron Smith

ARLINGTON, Texas – The 2021 Professional Women's Bowling Association Tour schedule will feature 20 tournaments, highlighted by the introduction of Classic Series events and an increase in the season's overall prize fund by nearly $400,000.

The 2021 PWBA Tour schedule marks the first season since 2001 to include at least 20 events, with the first increase in the number of national tournaments being held since 2016. Each season from 2016 to 2019 featured 14 events, while the 2020 PWBA Tour season, which was canceled due to the COVID-19 pandemic, also was scheduled to include 14 tournaments.

In addition to the growth on the national tour, the PWBA Regional program also will be expanding in 2021, with 14 events expected to be on the schedule.

The three Classic Series events on the 2021 PWBA schedule will be a combination of national and regional competition. The first will be the PWBA Kickoff Classic Series at the International Training and Research Center in Arlington, Texas, from Jan. 18-26.

Classic Series events will feature three national tour events during one stop, in addition to a PWBA Regional tournament. The first two tournaments in each Classic Series event will be open to the entire field of entrants, while the third event will use the qualifying totals from the first two tournaments to determine which players will compete in the final tournament.

"We're incredibly excited to see the PWBA Tour schedule expand to 20 events in 2021," Bowling Proprietors' Association of America Executive Director Frank DeSocio said. "We're thrilled to be able to provide additional opportunities to showcase the top bowlers in the world next year."

In addition to the expanded schedule, the BPAA and United States Bowling Congress will continue to pay out a minimum of 32 spots at each standard PWBA Tour event. Each tournament will feature a $60,000 prize fund, with $10,000 going to the champion. The final cash spot will be $1,100.

The organizations also will continue to add to the prestige and excitement of the two majors on the 2021 PWBA Tour schedule – the USBC Queens and U.S. Women's Open – by subsidizing the prize funds with an additional $190,000 across the two events.

The collective efforts, plus the additional events in 2021, will help increase the overall prize fund for the season from approximately $920,000 to more than $1.3 million.

The 2021 broadcast schedule for the PWBA Tour will move exclusively to BowlTV.com and feature live coverage from qualifying through the stepladder finals of each event, including both major championships.

TSUBC Youth State Championship and Texas Pepsi State Tournament for Plano Super Bowl Kids

By: Joyce Claus

We've all been through a lot this year, but I must say, it is great to see our youth bowlers back. Even with their masks, we can see the glitter in their eyes. Getting to come to league and be around our friends has been uplifting for all of us. Getting to bowl tournaments is another unexpected thrill for our youth bowlers.

We were fortunate that our kids got to bowl the Texas USBC Youth State Championship back in June.

While things were shut down, we kept up our communication with the youth bowlers and their parents via phone calls and emails, hoping that if this tournament were to happen, our kids would still want to bowl.

We were both surprised and delighted that we were able to maintain all 16 teams with just a few subs here and there.

Our center finally got to re-open just one week before the kids were scheduled to bowl their Texas State Tournament, giving the youth bowler very little practice time to prepare for the event, but, nevertheless, the kids persevered.

We are so proud of every one of them.

The scores may not have been as high as they had hoped they would be. However, considering the kids hadn't gotten to bowl in months, I think they did pretty good. Here are some of their results:

TEAM: Div 1 Team – 3rd Place: Landon Jones, Andrew Sly, Faith Kiefert & Ryan Sly

Div 2 -1st Place: Catie Chavez, Kyla Simons, Bradley Brown & Kristin Wood

DOUBLES: Div 2 - 5th Place: Robbie Baum & Daniel Young

SINGLES: Div 1 – 9th - Sean Robinson; 11th - Pl Bo Scott

Texas Pepsi State Championship came next - in September – again a “is this really going to happen” event. Thankfully our kids did get to participate, with many achieving success:

U20 Girls Hcp: 2nd – Victoria Hylton; 4th – Catie Chavez

U17 Boys Scratch: 6th –

We are grateful for our youth bowlers that participated, and for the support of their parents. We are especially thankful for those that worked many hours to see that these events could still go on for our kids. You are appreciated! We can only look to sunnier days and more opportunities for us to come together.

In Division 3 (140 - under), Trey Derflinger of Austin kicked off the finals by winning wire to wire and taking home first place and $600 in scholarship.

Treavor Thompson did everything he could to keep up but Trey was just too much. Treavor takes second and $300 in scholarship.

In Division 2 (Handicap), Drake Derflinger of Austin watched and cheered his younger brother to victory.

But, now it's time for big bro to stake the stage. Drake defeated hard charging Jonathan Wright of Houston to win this year's title and $1000 in scholarship.

Jonathan finishes second and $500 in scholarship. Drake and Trey became the first family to win 2 events within the same year.

In the Scratch Division, this might have been the toughest finals to date.

Garret Andrus of Austin had so much weight on his shoulders going into the finals.

Garrett was the only bowler to shoot 300 in this year's event. He had to bowl the defending champion, Jaelle Hamman of Georgetown.

And to top it off, both Trey and Drake are from Austin. Garrett had to keep the Austin powers on top.

Garrett takes the title and $1500 in scholarship. As a bonus, Garrett also gets $100 scholarship for his 300. Jaelle takes home $750.

Special thank you to our sponsors The Bowling Shops, Ebonite, Vise Inserts, Classic Products. We would also like thank our newest sponsor Platinum Ford. The most important thank you to Plano Super Bowl for their continued support for hosting the event seven years and counting.

A staple of this column over the years has been not only televised bowling programming, but also about who watches. Some of the points I try to explain are the importance of how many watch, compared to other programming at the same time, that day, and that week.

The circle works like this. Network/broadcasters get to sell their commercial time based on how many and who watches. Getting viewers with the most disposable income, mainly viewers between 18 to 49 years of age, are just as important and at times more so than the total number of viewers.

There were a handful of certainties with television viewership. NFL games often pull in the largest average viewership numbers of the week, the Super Bowl draws over 100 million viewers, making Super Bowl Sunday a unofficial national holiday.

Nielsen ratings for the PBA in the 1960's surprised ABC-TV executives, thus became a staple on Saturday afternoons for decades, even airing finals on as many as three different sources in the early to mid-1980's in the same season (ABC, ESPN, NBC).

And then, life happened in the middle of March 2020. At the conclusion of the 2020 PBA World Championship on Fox, the daily, weekly, and monthly routines everyone followed disappeared, large public gatherings and live television sports included.

Live PBA programming, the last to go, was one of the first to return and ratings have been down slightly. But wait, average viewership for all live sports has been down across the board. The PBA on Fox draws better numbers than when FS1 airs shows, but all the replays on FS1 and FS2 boost those numbers. That pattern has remained true after mid-March.

What we've seen the main Fox network television ratings for the PBA are strong, yet the FS1 original offerings and subsequent replays show much less average viewership.

The Strike Derby averaged a solid 776,000 on a Saturday night in June, followed an 890,000 average viewership the week after for the Summer Clash. Subsequent FS1 telecasts didn't rank high enough to be listed, usually needing a minimum of 300,000 average viewers.

Jon Lewis, founder and editor of Sports Media Watch (sportsmediawatch.com), one of the sources I check for PBA Nielsen ratings, put together a chart he first posted October 15 on Twitter showing the drop in the various live sports programming (https://twitter.com/paulsen_smw/status/1316911369162280961).

Decreases range between 13 to 61 percent, with the bulk in the 40% to 50% range. The only increases were WNBA, final round of the PGA Championship, and regular PGA Tour events on CBS. Even the World Series going on at Globe Life Field in Arlington now has lower average viewership. More on that later.

Further analysis can be found on prolific sports news website The Athletic (theathletic.com), posted October 23 by writer Richard Deitsch. He invited marketing executives from ESPN, Fox, and Sports Business Journal and Sports Business Daily to comment on what they are seeing pre and post pandemic.

Some adjustments were in place, further detailing a point made in a prior JPA Troy Walker Media Column series, outlining the separation between watching sports on demand online versus live sports on broadcast outlets.

Among the rationale was many sports with shortened seasons completing out of season, available time to watch has been squeezed, and people are just tired of life since mid-March. Unique programming like NFL Draft on ABC and ESPN's "The Last Dance" had impressive viewership numbers.

The best thing is enough people are still finding time to watch the PBA.

For League Bowlers, Detroit Is Still Number One

During my conversation with Aleta Sill last week, I commented to her that I had never really spent a lot of time in Detroit because of the tremendous good health of the bowling business in Michigan. One statistic that I often referenced during my time at AMF was that Detroit had twice as many league members as Chicago, which was the second largest city league membership in the USBC!

Sill confirmed my comment by stating, "Detroit once had more than 300 bowling centers in the metropolitan area, and now it's approaching only fifty centers." A look at the Metro Detroit USBC website authenticates Aleta's quote, with only three bowling centers remaining within the city limits of Detroit, and less than 60 in the entire suburban area.

Although the population of Detroit has fallen to only 672,662 residents, the metropolitan area still remains strong with 4,292,060 individuals. Of the remaining bowling centers, there's a total of 1,962 lane beds, or one lane for every 2,187 people. While their numbers have diminished greatly, the population to lane ratio is probably still tops among all metropolitan markets, with only Las Vegas, now highly regarded as the "new" capital of bowling, approaching the numbers presented by Detroit.

A quick look at the Las Vegas market shows that there are 740 lanes in the greater metro area with a population of 2,227,053, or one lane for every 3,009 people. Both of the numbers for Detroit and Las Vegas are much more healthy in terms of lane beds than our previous investigation of Phoenix, Los Angeles and Northern

New Jersey.

Detroit has a total of ten bowling centers with more than 50 lanes, and another 12 between 40 to 48 lanes. Las Vegas weighs in with 9 large bowling centers of more than 50 lanes. My guess is that Detroit is much more dependent on league bowlers, while Las Vegas relies more on tournament and casual bowling from casino patrons.

Last time that we talked about this subject I shared an Area Survey Form that I used to determine the viability of building a bowling center in a particular market, much to the delight and interest of both the publishers and readers. The other form that was used in regards to a market potential for new construction or purchase of an existing location was a Competitive Pricing Survey.

Taking a look at the accompanying form, which was filled out roughly 35 years ago, provides an astonishing look at the increases in league and open bowling prices... and even shoe rental! As startling as those figures look, they represent "only" a 267% increase over the time frame mentioned. However, the bowling industry is not alone in this regard, as I often refer to similar increases in McDonald's prices as a comparison.

When I first visited a McDonald's (in Novato, Calif., circa the early 1970's), I can remember ordering two hamburgers (20 cents each), one order of french fries (25 cents), and a milkshake (30 cents)... all for less than $1 dollar! Today the milkshake alone is more than $5.00, and the total fee for the four items is roughly $10.50, or over a 1,000% increase.

What will the future hold for bowling? It's a difficult question to answer, but one thing is for sure... bowling will continue. It's a remarkable game that is so easy that anyone can do it, and yet so difficult that no one can master it on a consistent basis. Not even Jason Belmonte.

Population and bowling membership numbers presented in this article were provided by the U.S. Census Bureau and the USBC.

Analyzing the Squatchy Out of It
I'm not talking about just accountants and engineers here. Many different personality types can do something well and then think they can repeat it by analyzing the squatchy out of it. I don't think I've ever seen that work. Of course, you have to be aware of what has happened on the lane and analyze what to do with all that data you've been gathering but once you've decided, get on with it. Don't second guess or question your decision. Analyzing it, thinking about it, gritting your teeth, analyzing it again to be sure, pursing your lips and really, really focusing on it won't get you any closer to being able to repeat it. I'm not saying that if you are the analytical type you'll never make a great bowler. I don't want you to deny your experiences or try to be someone you are not when you're bowling. If you want to analyze, go for it. And then ACT ON YOUR ANALYSIS.

It's the second guessing and doubts and hesitation that kill your execution, not the analysis. Flow and repeatability are mindless. You know you can do it. You already have. It's not that you can't; you just aren't. Make your decision, believe in whatever you've decided, and go for it. Your body already knows how if you can just get your mind to shut up!

Happy Thanksgiving! Stay safe! Visit Susie at strikeability.com!

The recent spike in COVID-19 positivity rates in Florida and Volusia County, and on campus provides clear and unambiguous evidence, in our view, that now is simply

What is unknown at press time was the employment fate of the school's coaching staff, including a friend of this column, Women's Bowling Head Coach Chelsea Gilliam. Those decisions are yet to be made.

In a message, Gilliam (pictured here in a recent photo), said her form of cancer is now a HER2+, making it easier to treat. Only 15% of all cases change from HER2- to HER2+, thus necessitating a new treatment plan.

USA BOWLING

Teams will bowl eight round-robin Baker matches to determine seeding for the double-elimination bracket. Bracket matches will be decided through a best-of-three Baker format, until a champion is determined in each division.

Single-day events will include both the seeding and match-play rounds. Two-day events will have the seeding round on the first day, and all teams will return on the second day for bracket play.

In addition, three regions (Heartland, Atlantic East, Northeast) will host the U12 and U15 divisions on separate days over the same weekend.

The format at each location may be adjusted based on state or local regulations.

With four-person teams being used at USA Bowling events, the competition features a unique Baker format. For each Baker game, the first two bowlers in the lineup each bowl three frames (1-5-9 and 2-6-10, respectively), while the other two team members bowl two frames each (3-7 and 4-8).

Team rosters can feature up to six players, giving each coach the opportunity to bring in substitutes during competition.

USA Bowling Regional tournaments started in 2013, building the foundation that would lead to the inaugural USA Bowling National Championships in 2016. The national event grew from the USA Bowling program, designed as a team-based youth program to introduce the sport to children.

USA Bowling Leagues share a team-based structure, similar to all youth sports, where young athletes receive instruction, have regular practices with a coach and then compete against other teams during an eight- to 12-week season.

USA Bowling is a product of the Youth Education Services (YES) Fund, a joint initiative of the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America and the United States Bowling Congress, supported by top bowling brands, including Bowling.com, Brunswick, Columbia 300, Ebonite, Hammer, QubicaAMF, Roto Grip, Storm and Track.

If treatment goes well, she may bowl in a certain high-profile Houston tournament in late July run by Donna Connors.

"I would love to bowl The Luci again, we'll see how I'm feeling. I was hopeful to make the tour next year but I won't be finishing up treatment until around April so we'll see.

"As far as the Bethune-Cookman athletics, remember it is a tough decision to hear, but we are doing what's best for the safety of our students and student-athletes." Gilliam added.

The jump to 14 regional tournaments in 2021 will allow more female competitors the opportunity to test their skills in one-day events across the United States. The full regional schedule for 2021 will be posted in January, prior to the start of the national tour season.

Registration for PWBA membership for 2021 will open on Nov. 5, 2020. New benefits for members include an annual subscription to both BowlTV and Bowlers Journal International.

Bowling Update

From Ten Pins & More

* With bowling re-opened after a lengthy six month closure due to COVID-19, at 25 percent capacity and only for league bowlers, there is a pent-up demand to get rolling again.

This is evidenced by the quick response to Tenpins & More premier league - the Draft Teams

Andrew Palla - 300 Game

Congratulations Andrew Palla! Andrew bowled his first 300 at Hilltop Lanes and rolled it against his parents and Hilltop proprietors, Scott and Deb Dodson.

Andrew was called in to sub on the opposing team and he certainly helped out. The team beat Scott and Deb's team by at least 250 pins that game.

Scott and Deb weren't too disappointed, since they were there to witness Andrew's first 300. Proud parents for sure!

At Hilltop Lanes

Brandenburg plasters 824, Neugent charts 671

Seibel 299/814, Harden 300/813, Dodson 300/811, Seibel 805, Mann, Palla 300's

WAXAHACHIE, TX - Frank Brandenburg fired his first hard-hitting 278-256-290 = 824 Monday Night Mixed league session to end at the top of the honor roll for the month at Hilltop Lanes.

There were a mountain of honor scores which included Pete Seibel 299/814, Thursday Sunshine Seniors, Stacy Harden 300/813 Tues Nite Challenge, Scott Dodson, Monday Nite Mixed, 300/811 and Pete Seibel 805 in Tues Nite Challenge league play.

Tara Neugent headed the ladies high-set race with a robust 255-235-181 = 671 Tuesday Nite Challenge set.

Classic, which kicked off last Monday with a fully-subscribed 48-person roster.

The league has attracted many of the metro area's best, including Matt Smith, Dan Brenning, Eric Espinda, Billy Grant, Pete Sheridan, Angel Ortega, Melissa Danks and recent Hawaiian star, Jason Fujimoto who transferred from duties at Hickham AFB in Honolulu to Kirtland AFB earlier this month.

It's quite a test for everyone, as the league features three different "challenge" sport shots on the competition lanes during the 31-week season, requiring thoughtful ball selection and moves on the lanes to gain maximum pinfall in the head-to-head clashes.

Other new leagues gaining traction are the six-week "Beating

At Tenpins & More

Payne drills 782, Prioleau crafts 718

Hayes, Jr. 300, Edwards 299

RIO RANCHO, NM - Chris Payne won high-set honors for the month at Tenpins & More with a power-packed 259-267-257 = 782 Bud Trios league series.

Robin Prioleau topped the ladies' leader board with an outstanding 242-238-238 = 718 Penny Pinchers session.

John Hayes, Jr. captured high-game accolades with an award-winning 12-bagger while Robert Edwards took runner-up honors with a near-perfect 299 solo.
