Mark Williams presents Champion Paul McCordic with the trophy and check along with Tournament Director Pete McCordic

By: Pete McCordic
Beaumont, Texas, (November 30, 2020) – Paul McCordic from Sugar Land, Texas secured his 10th PBA Regional victory at the second annual PBA50 Beaumont Southwest Open on Sunday edging Ron Boroff, from Mansfield, Texas in the final match of the day, 203-197. McCordic challenged the early event leaders with a 289 game three in qualifying that helped him maintain the leading position after eight games on Saturday, followed by the Cashers Round on Sunday. McCordic withstood solid challenges from Ron Boroff, of Mansfield, Texas, and defending champion Derek Williams, of Groves, Texas, to hold a 14-pin lead going into the final game position round. The consistent lead helped McCordic earn $2,500 for the first-place win.

Williams defeated Houston's David Scardaville, 233-208, to overtake Boroff for second place.

USBC to Hold Virtual Convention and Annual Meeting in 2021

By: Matt Cannizzaro
ARLINGTON, Texas - The United States Bowling Congress Board of Directors has voted to conduct the 2021 USBC Convention and Annual Meeting virtually due to COVID-19 public health concerns and frequently changing restrictions.

Both were scheduled to be held at the Westin Lombard Yorktown Center in Lombard, Illinois, from April 26-29, 2021.

An update with more details about the schedule, procedures and technology for the virtual convention will be announced by the end of January 2021.

A resolution also has been passed by the USBC Board of Directors to allow state and local USBC associations to hold their annual meetings virtually in 2021. USBC's Associations team already is working on guidelines and materials to help associations with the process.

how many centers started off as essentially two or four lane rec rooms inside taverns.

If you look at the Bowling Centers Association of Wisconsin (BCAW) website at www.bowlwi.com, click the "Events" tab at the top of the screen. The drop menu will show a "Wisconsin Vintage Alleys Tour" option. Then look at the bottom of that page for the "Vintage Bowling Alleys Map" button. You'll find a list of 22 centers of the state's 200 member centers on a Google map.

"Longing for 'good ol' days' of bowling? Do you wish for wooden lanes, human pinsetters, scorekeeping with a pencil? Or do you just love bowling history? Wisconsin has a proud heritage of bowling. Take a break from all the modern gadgets and gizmos, and come explore and bowl in some of bowling's historic landmarks."

Christmas - A Time for Reflection

In December of 1965 The Byrds released their hit single Turn! Turn! Turn! to the delight of listeners throughout the world. It was an appropriate time of year for the release because the words, inspired by King Solomon from the book of Ecclesiastes in the Bible, personify the definitions of wisdom, knowledge and life.

The passages are also the most famous examples of opposites, providing phrases that are contrary in meaning to one another... a time to weep, and a time to laugh; a time to mourn, and a time to dance; a time of war, and a time of peace... all examples from the famous

In a state where bowling is so woven into the social fabric and culture, there are more than a handful of smaller centers that remind one of how the game used to be. Like Texas and many other states in our primary coverage area, Wisconsin and other Great Lakes states have more than a handful of centers that are a walk back into the past, reminding one of Vintage Alleys website and Facebook page.

"I've been told by many that our tours were the first and only in the country. The idea for them really grew out of what I was seeing as a national interest in Kevin Hong's Vintage Alleys Project, primarily on Facebook. His work was so inspiring I nominated him for the 2016 BPAA Media Award, which we received in Nashville that year at Bowl Expo.

"We wanted to bring awareness to all of the vintage era bowling alleys we have here in Wisconsin, I believe the most in the country! I have data on the number of "micro" sized centers (I define as 6 or 8 lanes and less) from BPAA. I know our raw numbers are the most, what I don't know is whether or not they have remained "vintage" or if they've updated, which many here have in recent years.

"As I visited bowling centers around our state starting in 2015, I quickly realized that many of our smallest non-members would reap little benefit from the programming provided by BPAA (primarily SMART BUY) and BCAW (our youth events, including the WI High School and WI Middle School Bowling Clubs. The summer of 2017 we brought together a group of proprietors of these small (mostly 4 & 6 laners), to discuss what we might be able to do to drive awareness & traffic to them.

JPA: The idea is certainly sound, but how was the format of Tour chosen?

Yvonne Bennett: While most of the ideas revolved around some familiar tavern & pub run type events here in Wisconsin, nothing really jelled for me as I really wanted to feature and promote the bowling, not the bar side of the business. But from those discussions, I got to thinking about the winery and brewery tours that I had taken and how they were put together. The concept really started as a fun party day, hosted and chauffeured to experience some of the throwback to bowling's early years. We'd do a little eating & drinking, I'd run some bowling contests throughout the day for some cash prizes plus door prize raffles including donated bowling jerseys (from partners like H5G), old bowling balls (NIB -- new in box -- found in our warehouse) and other cool items like Bowl Wisconsinly tee-shirts and books about Wisconsin's bowling history (including a couple of photo books I've published). I think in an average tour day, folks would get in about 8 games of bowling, if they chose to. The goal was never to make money on these tours, but rather to break even. So I would give away more cash prizes to get to the point of making them break even.

JPA: What criteria is used to determine what makes a "vintage" alley?

Bennett: A few date back to the 1920's, mostly they are 1930's to 1950's. Often their back story is the building was once a hotel, if not a bar/tavern. The German heritage here in Wisconsin is present with our beer and bowling, so it's no surprise the two went together as these places cropped up. We also have some older vintage era fraternal clubs like the Elks, with bowling lanes. Unfortunately, some of the Elks Lodges are closing or removing their lanes. We also have had lanes in churches, but most of them are gone too. I know of one in Appleton that is rarely used, but is still in pretty pristine condition, with old B-10 pinsetters.

So that brings me your question as to what makes a vintage bowling alley? (And yes . . . alleys would be the proper term for these older centers.) I often say "you'll know it when you see it" but it generally entails some features that only bowlers from previous generations would recognize. On my short list would be, wood lanes, scorekeeping with a pencil (wood or grease), over-lane ball returns and old masking units. A rack full of house balls that include the AMF 3 Dot or Dick Weber 5 Star or Brunswick's Black Beauty or the ever-popular Brunswick Bantam line of kids' balls surely makes the list of attributes of my dream vintage alleys! The rarer ACE Rubber and Manhattan Rubber are cool to find on racks.

Next week, BCAW's Yvonne Bennett gives more details of the Vintage Alleys Tour including feedback from proprietors, participants, its future in the pandemic. Speaking of the source of the Tour's inspiration Kevin Hong, I'll have a preview of his 2021 photo calendar, and a renaming of the project.

The calendar year end December 17 column will combine a bowling story as part of a JPA Lost Classic I have not disclosed in the prior twenty-three years of the column. Stay tuned.

USBC CONVENTION

to consider travel and meeting arrangements, so we wanted to make and announce this decision as early as possible," USBC Executive Director Chad Murphy said. "Because there still is so much uncertainty, along with varying travel and capacity restrictions from state to state, we feel it's the most reasonable option."

Also included in the 2021 Annual Meeting will be any outstanding official business from the 2020 event. A special resolution from the USBC Board canceled the 2020 Convention but postponed the Annual Meeting activities until 2021.

The resolution was enacted to ensure a proper governance process under USBC Bylaws during this time of uncertainty and allow for the continuity of governance to be properly maintained in accordance with applicable laws until delegates could meet in 2021.

Traditionally, the agenda for the USBC Convention also includes the USBC Hall of Fame Induction Ceremony. After discussing some options with the 2020 and 2021 USBC Hall of Fame inductees, it was determined that honoring them in a formal in-person ceremony was the preferred choice, and that now will take place during the 2022 Convention.

All other USBC award winners and honorees scheduled to be recognized at the 2020 Convention, plus the 2021 award recipients, will be honored as part of a virtual celebration during the online event in 2021.

With many questions likely to arise due to the changes, BOWL.com and BOWL.com/Convention will be the places to look for updates and information as they become available.

USBC staff will continue working on additional communications and guidance for bowlers and association leaders, both for the national convention and for the state and local meetings.

antonyms of King Solomon.

Someone that always impressed me with his command of synonyms and antonyms was Chuck Pezzano, perhaps the greatest bowling writer of all time, that passed away in 2015 at the age of 86. His weekly bowling column appeared in bowling publications and newspapers for more than fifty years.

Before I ever met Mr. Pezzano, he had acknowledged my bowling performances in his column that appeared in The Sporting News. While I enjoyed buying The Sporting News during the summer months to check out major league baseball boxscores (this was before the internet!), I'm not sure that I even knew about Pezzano's column in the famous sports newspaper.

One day a friend of mine said that I was featured in an article that appeared in The Sporting News! I hurried to the drug store and when I spotted the feature, I snatched up the last three copies on the shelf for 75 cents each. Proof of Pezzano's command of the english language was confirmed with a couple of quotes that were reminiscent of King Solomon:

• "At 24, Williams has done more in bowling than most pros will accomplish in a lifetime, yet he hasn't caused the slightest ripple in his first attempts at pro bowling."

• "Scoring in bowling can be a relative thing, based heavily on lane conditions, but if you rolled on a no-tilt pinball machine, you couldn't rack up that kind of record."

• "His impressive record will be told over and over again, if he makes it. If he doesn't, few will recall him, and fewer will remember his 300 and 800 sprees that deserve a spot in bowling history."

When I finally met Chuck in 1982, following AMF's decision to move me to the corporate offices in Westbury, New York, we became fast friends and would talk for hours about the history of bowling. I especially liked to pick his brain about the team era of bowling which made stars out of Dick Weber, Don Carter and dozens of others.

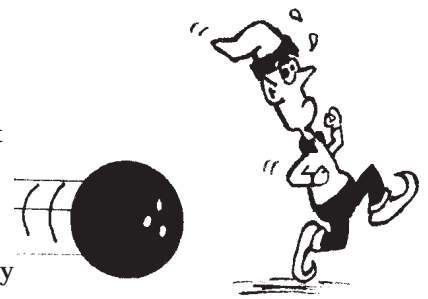

Pezzano was a graduate of Rutgers University, where he was the first collegiate bowler to roll a three-game series of over 800. While I never asked him, one can only assume that Chuck majored in English Literature, or perhaps Physical Education. His command of the english language was very apparent in all of his columns, and many books about bowling that he authored.

Mr. Pezzano and Frank Esposito, a New Jersey entrepreneur that owned the famous Paramus Bowl, were responsible for the creation of the Professional Bowlers Association (PBA) Regional Bowling Program. Chuck served for many years as the director of the PBA Eastern Region, and Secretary of the national organization. Although he never retired from the PBA, in later years he held the title of PBA Historian.

Another unique feature of Chuck's personality was his ability to make you feel as though you were the most important person in the room when you were with him. I'm sure that this distinguishing quality came from the fact that Pezzano had four sons that must have all been requiring his attention when they were young.

Merry Christmas, and Happy Holidays to all!

Ohio High School Bowler Selected for Annual Zeb Scholarship

By: Terry Bigham

ARLINGTON, Texas – Hannah Vaughn of Fredericktown, Ohio, who started bowling competitively after joining her high school team as a freshman, has been selected as the Annual Zeb Scholarship recipient by the International Bowling Campus Youth Committee.

The Annual Zeb Scholarship recognizes a United States Bowling Congress Youth member who has achieved academic success and gives back to their community through service. The recipient, who must be in their junior or senior year of high school, receives a $2,500 scholarship.

Vaughn, a Fredericktown High School senior, admits she was not very good when she joined the bowling team her freshman year – “I averaged around 90 and was very excited if I ever broke 100” – but as an athlete who had competed in basketball, volleyball and track, she proved to be a quick student of the game.

In the past two seasons, she was named Most Valuable Player on her bowling team, and she finished second at the 2020 Ohio High School Athletic Association (OHSAA) Girls Division II State Bowling Championships.

She has been actively involved with 4-H since 2005, serving as a 4-H Camp Counselor for three years, and the National FFA Organization. She has served as a member of the Knox County Equine Advisory Committee and Knox County Canine Council since 2011.

“This scholarship means so much to me,” Vaughn said. “I appreciate being recognized for my community service and academics so much. In 4-H, FFA, and school, I have been able to give back to my community by volunteering. In the classroom, I have worked very hard to get good grades and take college classes. This scholarship will help me to continue my education without having as much stress about debt.”

She has a 4.0 grade-point average, is a member of the National Technical Honor

New York, Colorado Bowlers Selected as Youth Ambassadors of the Year

By: Terry Bigham

ARLINGTON, Texas – Courtney Morelli of Selden, New York, and Tanner Ausec of Colorado Springs, Colorado, have been selected as the United States Bowling Congress Youth Ambassadors of the Year.

The annual award recognizes a male and a female USBC Youth bowler for exemplary contributions in the sport outside of league or tournament play, academic accomplishments, and community involvement.

Selected by the International Bowling Campus Youth Committee, based on submitted applications, Morelli and Ausec each will receive a $1,500 scholarship.

Morelli has been a member of the Long Island USBC Youth Leaders program since 2013, and currently serves as treasurer. She chairs the Fundraising and Recruitment committees, and mentors new members.

She also is the vice president of the New York State Youth Leaders board, which she has served on for the last two years.

“Receiving this award is an incredible honor,” Morelli said. “I absolutely love participating in Youth Leaders events and helping out in any way possible. This is such a validation to all the years I’ve spent participating as a Youth Leader and furthering the bowling program.”

While her work with the Youth Leaders program has helped the local and state association, it also has taught Morelli valuable skills.

“I have always been a shy kid, and joining this program has really built up my confidence,” Morelli said. “I have developed my social skills and how to interact with adults. My organization and planning skills have really improved, as well as my problem-solving skills.”

A senior at Newfield High School, she has been a member of the school’s bowling team since the seventh grade. She also competes in a travel league.

She plans to study business administration in the fall.

Ausec currently is serving his third one-year term as a youth director on the Pikes Peak USBC board, ensuring local youth are represented and served through tournaments and awards programs.

"I have been fortunate to receive so much from the local bowling community," Ausec said. "Whether through coaching, equipment, or knowledge, there have always been people to support me. As I grew up, I learned to understand the importance of giving back wherever possible, which is why I began coaching. This award is an acknowledgment of not only my efforts to give back to the game, but recognition of all that I have received from my local bowling community, as well."

A senior at Rampart High School, Ausec has a 4.19 grade-point average and ranks sixth in his class. On the lanes, he helped Rampart win back-to-back state team titles the past two seasons.

He started coaching youth bowlers at King Pin Lanes in Colorado Springs four years ago, as part of a National Junior Honor Society community service requirement. He said he quickly realized how much he enjoyed teaching the basic skills of the sport, and it gave him a greater appreciation of those who coached him.

"Coaching has taught me a number of things, but first and foremost it is a constant reminder that bowling should always be fun," Ausec said. "It has also taught me to be a better student of the game, and my skill level has benefited because of it."

Ausec will attend the University of Wisconsin-White-water in the fall and plans to bowl for the Warhawks.

Morelli and Ausec also may have the opportunity to serve on the IBC Youth Committee and be eligible for additional scholarship funds. Youth Ambassadors selected to serve on the IBC Youth Committee must be at least 18 years old as of Aug. 1 in year of selection.

Society, was named to the Academic All-Ohio team and has taken honors courses in math, biology and business. She is taking college courses at Central Ohio Technical College, where she made the President's Honors List.

In addition to her work through 4-H and FFA, she has volunteered with the Salvation Army, Hot Meals of Fredericktown, made blankets for the Children's Hospital, and hosted petting zoos for the Eastern Star Nursing Home.

She plans to attend Mount Vernon Nazarene University in the fall, where she will study sports management and finance, and bowl for the Cougars.

The scholarship is named for Jim Zebehazi, who served as executive director of the Young American Bowling Alliance (YABA) from 1996-2004 and later as a regional manager for USBC. Zebehazi is a member of the 2020 USBC Hall of Fame class.
