Holiday Lanes Proprietors Kim and Tim Denny

By: Tony Franklin, Publisher
OKLAHOMA CITY, OK – The Bowling News would like to welcome a new center to the family this month, Holiday Lanes in Oklahoma City, OK. The center was purchased on May 29th 2018 by Oklahoma bowling royalty, Tim and Kim Denny.

The Denny's have run independent businesses for years and felt the time was right to get into the bowling business where they could "bring a level of experience and fun along the way."

Tim grew up in California, but moved with his family to

Nathan Bohr Outlasts Field to Claim Inaugural TX Ironman

Rowlett Bowl-a-Rama GM Steven Keblish and Perfect Strike Owner Chad Glines present Nathan Bohr with a $5,000 check.

By: Chris Lucas

ROWLETT, Texas - The Inaugural TX Ironman lived up to it's name as 78 bowlers took the lanes at 9am Saturday, August 29 at Rowlett Bowl-a-Rama to embark on a 16 game journey to get to the top 8 single elimination bracket finals.

Nathan Bohr led the field with 3711, just barely ahead of Billy Rogers, 3707, who claimed the top position for most of the day.

The top 2 bowlers received a two-round bye and Marc Heninger, 3567, and Dimitri

Cityview Lanes Returns to The Bowling News

By: Tony Franklin, Publisher
FORT WORTH, Texas - We are very excited to have one of our all-time favorite bowling centers rejoin The Bowling News for the Southwest editions.

Josh Modelo, the proprietor of both USA Bowl and Cityview Lanes has been a great partner with us and it will be great to be able to properly celebrate all of his bowlers once again.

Cityview has been owned by his family since 2008, with day-to-day operations being led by Modelo since 2013. One of the key changes has been a rebirth of youth leagues and a desire to host large tournaments, such as Jr Gold and the yearly Texas Pepsi tournament, which takes place this week.

Genie and I commentating at the TX Ironman tournament

A very interesting occurrence in the bowling industry last month, as the United States Bowling Congress (USBC) purchased Bowlers Journal International Magazine and the Bowlers Journal Championships tournament from Luby Publishing.

USBC President, Melissa McDaniel said that the USBC is all about “celebrating the past and ensuring the future,” and I think having the most legendary bowling publication as one of your brands will most certainly be an enabler for that mission statement.

I also think this makes a lot of sense from the tournament side of the house as the BJ has always ran side by side with the Open Championships, so using the power of the USBC resources for that event as well, should be a big win.

I big shout-out goes to Chris Lucas, Chad Glines with Perfect Strike and all of the staff and helpers that made the inaugural TX Ironman bowling tournament a big success at Rowlett Bowl-a-Rama this weekend.

In true ironman (person) fashion, this event took an amazing amount of stamina. 16 games total, they started at 9am, took a break after eight, ran a new pattern, bowled eight more, cut to the top eight for single-game matches, and finished at 2am. A 17-ish hour day for all of the competitors and those running the tournament, whew that’s ironman worthy for sure.

They had a full field of 78 players, including five ladies, Maria Rodriguez and Diana Zavjalova among them and several senior players. They had top talent from eight different states and a couple of top pros.

Perfect Strike provided an awesome livestream for the event, so you really need to go check it out, available on YouTube, at the very least check out the finals.

A great finish, with PBA pro, Nathan Bohr taking home the win and $5,000.

Genie and I went over and practiced at USA Bowl last week, and were really excited to see some of the renovations that they have gone through. Completely changed up to the Snack Bar and Beverage bar to a very modern clean look.

Also, a lot of cleanup since the tornado tore through that area last year, and some still to go, but the center looks great and was busy with bowlers, truly the best part!

Oklahoma when he was 13. He played baseball in Cali, but walked into a bowling center with his brother after moving to town, and without their parent’s permission, signed up for a league, and have now been bowlers ever since.

Bowling has always been there for Tim, he was a highly competitive youth bowler in OKC, and continued that into his adult career. He met Kim when they were 16, got married at 19, and continued his love of the game all the way through.

Holiday Lanes is unique in that it has 16 wood lanes and 16 synthetic lanes, and Kim, as the day-to-day Manager has led the center through a lot of other upgrades.

“The improvements, quality of product and experience that we have been able to implement have been very pleasing. Word of mouth has been so important and social media reputation on top of that. We respond to all reviews, both good and bad,” Tim said.

“I’m most proud of the service and food and beverage, there are few differentiators out there, you have to treat every person that walks in as they are going to be a lifelong customer. The cost of retention is much cheaper than creating a new customer,” he added.

Tim stays busy with two other business he owns and runs, Onward Fleet Solutions and REAL, which is a remote workplace support service.

OKC is lucky to have such a dedicated family running a great center, but they also realize what truly makes the difference.

“100% it takes great people (employees) to have great service and a great product, we are fortunate to have a great team,” Tim said.

Make sure to visit this awesome center the next time you need a place to bowl and have a great time.

CITYVIEW LANES

“Our Cityview manager, Rusty Dickinson, has been a very important factor in helping provide our customers the best service, and feel welcome in our center,” said Josh.

League and competitive bowling has been on the rise at Cityview, and the service to those customers begins with things such as an all-new scoring system.

Another huge part of Cityview Lanes is the Ballard Bowling Academy. Carolyn and Del Ballard own the pro shop, but have recently partnered with Modelo to utilize the first six lanes of the center for their Academy.

“They have the flexibility to make it whatever they want, group lessons, one-on-one, team training, event bowling. I’m just so excited to have them be a part of our family,” he added.

The 64-lane center is one of the largest in all of the Southwest area, so they can provide you with the ultimate in bowling experience, and now they have a dedicated space to bowl or train with two of the most respected bowlers and families in the world.

Welcome back Cityview Lanes, we’re so grateful to have you in the paper again!

Kickoff Classic Weekend a Big Success

Kickoff Doubles Champions Joe Bowler and Quentin Collins

By: Dino Castillo

GARLAND, Texas - Kickoff Classic weekend was nothing like we could imagine. With the pandemic, we had to make many adjustments.

We were not sure how people were going to react or whether they would even want to bowl. The response was overwhelming. We broke up the field into 2 squads and it filled in less than a week!

We decided to add a third squad on Friday night and almost filled that too!

Friday night had 26 teams,

Saturday day had 30 teams full, and Saturday night had 30 teams full.

We had a record 86 teams for the 11th Annual Kickoff Classic.

The payout of $8000 is a record and is the largest payout for a team event in Texas!

3rd Annual Kickoff Doubles was also a big hit. We had a record 82 teams this year.

A big thank you to Cyndi Ray and her staff at Bowlero Garland for hosting the event and maintaining the social distancing rules. We are already working together to make next year's Kickoff Weekend even bigger.

Kickoff Classic

1 - $8,000 We Got This - Steve Sherrell, Ashley Crowe, Josh Renfro, Mark DeArment, and J.P. Tijerina

 Congratulations to all the winners and all the cashers.

We paid out over $150K over 3 days with the tournament and sidpots!!! That is absolutely crazy!!!

Next year, our project for this is to pay $10K first and payout over 200K.

Thank you to all of you that continue to support our events. We can't do it without you.

Next events are the Inaugural Trios event Sept 26-27 at Forum Bowl. 4th Annual Harvest Moon Oct 31-Nov 1.

experience with us. We do this for you guys.

Finally, I can't say thank you to everyone that assisted in some manor.

Our commentators were AWESOME! Trea Ward, my main man, you impressed us with how long you went, but when your running for mayor everywhere, I expected no less. Joe Findling for coming in and making it a great start.

Next, I really hoped and prayed that I could get the talented Tony Franklin to come in. Not only did I get his knowledge and comedic talent, he brought his lovely wife Genie to team with him making yet another hit for the afternoon. We finished the night with another impressive talent and tons of knowledge in NCTUSBC's very own Terry Taylor joining up with longtime friend Trea. They pushed through with ease for the last 4-5 hrs. Amazing! Thank you so much for coming in and helping make this what it was today! Kelly Ray, thank you brother, for being there to run the grocery store. Now we got to get healthy, we have a Guinness Record to break!

Chad Glines, thank you for your love of bowling and trusting me to help you put on a tournament everyone will look forward to for years to come, hopefully.

Everyone thanks and keeps your eyes open for BIGGER than Texas things to come.

USBC Purchases Bowlers Journal International Brand Assets

By: Aaron Smith

ARLINGTON, Texas - The United States Bowling Congress has purchased the rights to Bowlers Journal International magazine and the Bowlers Journal Championships tournament from Chicago-based Luby Publishing, Inc.

Bowlers Journal International magazine is the most iconic media brand in the sport, with a 107-year history of publication, while the Bowlers Journal tournament, contested alongside the USBC Open Championships, dates back to 1946.

"USBC is proud to bring on the Bowlers Journal International brand as a great addition to our association," USBC President Melissa McDaniel said.

"The USBC Promise is about celebrating the past and ensuring the future. By acquiring Bowlers Journal, USBC will be the custodian of the magazine's rich history, while ensuring bowling's stories continue to be showcased and chronicled for decades to come."

The Luby family, which founded Luby Publishing, launched the first edition of Bowlers Journal in November 1913. Founder Dave Luby's love of bowling inspired him to create the magazine in his spare time. The Luby family continued to publish Bowlers Journal through two world wars and the Great Depression.

Dave Luby, his son, Mort Luby Sr., and grandson, Mort Luby Jr., all are members of the USBC Hall of Fame. Bowlers Journal International is currently the longest-running monthly sports magazine in the nation.

In 1994, Mort Luby Jr. sold the company to two long-time employees, Keith Hamilton and Mike Panozzo.

"Bowlers Journal International is more than just a magazine or a business for Luby Publishing," Luby Publishing President Keith Hamilton said. "We are caretakers of a publication that is part of bowling's DNA. Our goal has always been to create the best future for Bowlers Journal, and we feel USBC is the perfect fit."

Under the agreement, USBC will take over operations of the magazine effective Sept. 1, 2020. Plans call for continuing Bowlers Journal's current products and services without disruption.

"We are thrilled for the opportunity to move forward with this wonderful brand as part of USBC, and we are pleased to announce that Gianmarc Manzione will continue as editor and Mike Panozzo as publisher," McDaniel said. "We have been celebrating our athletes at USBC for over a century, and a special aspect of this new merger is that Bowlers Journal has been, too. Joining together will allow us to elevate that exposure bigger and better than ever."

Plano Super Bowl Youth Season Festivities

Brandon Ingram - 299 Game

Noah Raleigh - 300 Game

Landon Jones - 299 Game

By: Joyce Claus

Plano Super Bowl Youth league finished out their summer season – one that we thought would not even be possible - with each of its 7 youth leagues having a “fun bowling day” and awards presentation.

The youth bowlers respectfully wore their masks each week of the season, so they would be able to bowl. Over $7,000 in SMART scholarships was awarded to the Youth Bowlers that bowled in the summer season.

In addition, we are proud to announce that 11 bowlers from our Jr. Gold Leagues have qualified through their respective leagues to bowl in the 2021 Junior Gold National Championships to be held in Indianapolis, July 2021.

The Monday Jr. Gold League qualifiers are: Brady McDonough, Daniel Young, Jake DeVoe, and Landon Jones.

The Saturday Jr. Gold League qualifiers are: Carlen Gattenby, Brandon Ingram, Katie Heady, Aaron Coleman, Noah Raleigh, Zack Wassam, and Charisse Graham.

The highlight of our end-of-summer Saturday league festivities was the presentation of some long overdue honor awards to 3 of our bowlers for scores bowled in the past few years.

Those bowlers honored are: Brandon Ingram, 299 game, 11-in-a-row, bowled on December 9, 2017, in the Saturday Gold “Sport” league

Noah Raleigh, 300 game, bowled on August 12, 2018 in the Grand Prix State Finals

Landon Jones, 299 game, 11-in-a-row, bowled on February 25, 2019, in the Monday Jr. Gold “Sport” league.

We are so proud of all of our youth bowlers and their accomplishments. We look forward to a new fall season starting up again in a few weeks.

Teamwork Pays Off in Strikz Youth League

Connor Martin, Lee Whitney and Matthew Lange

By: Rick Irvine

Connor Martin, Lee Whitney and Matthew Lange are first time special needs league bowlers at Strikz in Frisco who were looking for a competitive league.

They knew nothing about how a youth league works and didn't do so well the first three weeks.

But, then they came together as a team and got into the position round needing to take 6 points from the first place team.

They lost game 1, but bounced back as game 2 went down to the last bowler in the 10th. Matthew Lange stepped up and spared to win.

In the third game, they just bowled out of their minds to win the game and totals.

After it was over, Connor said he couldn't hold the phone to take a picture because his hands were shaking so bad.

They really showed the rest of the league what teamwork is all about.

Zach Smullen, a junior on the Wakeland High School bowling team, was watching their last few frames after he got done and said they always seem to come through in the clutch.

Five Schools Awarded Bowler's Ed Kits

By: Aaron Smith

ARLINGTON, Texas – The International Bowling Campus Youth Development team recently selected five schools to receive Bowler's Ed kits through its equipment grant program.

The Bowler's Ed program provides educators and youth organizers the tools needed to engage children in a true bowling experience by bringing a bowling-center atmosphere inside a classroom or gymnasium.

The schools selected to receive Bowler's Ed kits were determined based on submitted applications. The schools receiving a kit are:

- James Island Elementary, Charleston, S.C.
- Maryland International Day School, Camp Springs, Md.
- South Putnam Community Education Foundation, Greencastle, Ind.
- Waterville Elementary, Waterville, Minn.
- West Shore School District, Goldsboro, Pa.

The kit includes a carpeted mobile bowling lane, along with a rubberized bowling ball and plastic pins. Teachers are provided a step-by-step curriculum and an instructional video on the fundamentals of bowling, etiquette, safety, scoring and fitness activities.

The curriculum includes lessons to reinforce math, language arts, social studies, problem solving, geography, computer skills and more. It includes activities for grades K-8 and features elements to enhance cardiovascular health, coordination and endurance.

"Bowler's Ed kits are a great way to introduce and teach the sport of bowling to students across the country," said Chrisie Kent, chair of the IBC Youth Committee. "The curriculum provides teachers everything they'll need to help their students have fun and enjoy the sport, with the ability to connect multiple subjects and allow for physical activity."

IBC Youth Development works with local associations, schools and bowling centers throughout the country to deliver the In-School Bowler's Ed kits. The initiative, supported by the bowling industry, seeks to bring bowling centers and associations together with schools in their community, so physical education teachers can make bowling one of the sports they teach to their students.

Since 2009, the Bowler's Ed Grant Program has awarded more than $500,000 in the form of Bowler's Ed kits to schools and organizations.

IBC Youth Development is supported by the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America and the United States Bowling Congress.

For more information the Bowler's Ed program, visit BOWL.com/BowlersEd.

Bowling and the mainstream media—that phrase alone has been enough to raise more red flags than I care to count over the history of this column and even before.

But lately, there has been a different approach to these items seen nationally, especially now that these items can be reviewed in a library on a media outlet's website.

The latest piece was a rather pleasant surprise on my birthday several weeks ago as PWBA player Gazmine "GG" Mason was profiled in a five minute segment on ABC-TV's "Good Morning America." The surprise I am referring to features a reporter with a previously unknown background in the sport. After hearing of GG's story of wanting to inspire more young female African-American bowlers to compete in college, for Team USA, and professionally, lead anchor Robin Roberts reported the story, adding she was a Missisissippi youth bowling champion. I cannot stress enough when a reporter has a background in our little corner of the world, the angle of the story almost guarantees a more realistic presentation of the joy and satisfaction the game and what it could bring to others.

After a sit-down interview, Roberts grabbed a house ball, a pair of house shoes, and bowled a game with Mason, where the brief shots of Roberts rolling the ball show her state champion form. Another part of the surprise came as Roberts asked relevant questions about Mason's career thus far, nearly a path the former college basketball player and ESPN SportsCenter anchor almost took herself.

Keeping in mind five minutes on national television is a very long time, but this is easily one of the better features showing off the game and the people who are able to bowl at the highest levels.

See the story for yourself here (<https://www.goodmorningamerica.com/living/video/robin-roberts-bowls-pro-bowler-gazmine-gg-mason-72438832>).

Another television news story about bowling aired in the bowling hotbed of Milwaukee showing how safe this activity once the weather turns colder (as it does much more so north of the Ohio River than the Red River of the South). Titled "Is Bowling Safe?" the Fox6Milwaukee WakeUp show spoke with OnMilwaukee.com reporter Molly Snyder about the financial hit centers took closing six weeks before the winter season was completed, comparing it to retailers losing out on December sales. She mentioned centers traditionally closing for the summer (again, more so north of the Ohio River),

Just Paying Attention

By Mark London
Mark@TheBowlingNews.net

GG Mason sits down with Robin Roberts on Good Morning America

keeping open bowling groups separated by an empty lane, but center air ventilation is the biggest concern. Snyder added she is an avid open bowler, even attending a Milwaukee high with its own lanes.

Here's the link to that story (<https://www.fox6now.com/fox6-wakeup-news/looking-for-something-fun-to-do-indoors-bowling-is-relatively-safe-to-do-during-the-pandemic>).

As 2020-21 season leagues kick off this week, a big question is how each center is handling social distancing. For example, at Cherry Lanes in Dubuque, Iowa, with a majority of leagues normally fill the house four nights a week, teams scheduled on odd numbered lanes will bowl three games on its pair of lanes at 6:00pm. After the prescribed and mandated cleaning of the all the bowling furniture, the even numbered teams will bowl at 7:30pm without a re oil. Both teams will bowl on its pair of lanes, but not at the same time. Smaller leagues not normally taking the whole center will spread out with each team on a single pair of lanes with all teams bowling at the same time.

The Dubuque City Council passed a mask mandate on August 6th requiring face masks to be worn inside any public buildings. Masks are necessary off the approach and in the center, optional while on the approach, much like it is in Harris County, the City of Houston, and numerous other places.

On Friday last week, news spread on the passing of PBA and USBC Hall of Famer Dick Ritger. The Wisconsin native had two major chapters in his

Fox Sports Increases PBA League Coverage to Six Two-Hour LIVE Telecasts

By: ddziomba

New York, NY – The 2020 PBA League officially returns to the lanes in September with 60 of the world’s best male, female, and international athletes competing for the prestigious Elias Cup.

This year, the PBA League is making history with 12 teams, including four expansion franchises and two all-women’s teams. This year’s telecast will also feature four additional hours of live coverage on FS1.

The twelve teams now split into two divisions, Carter and Anthony, will take to the lanes on Friday September 26th with the Portland Lumberjacks looking to defend their title.

The PBA League will also have a new home in 2020 – Bowlero Centreville in Centreville, VA, just outside of Washington, DC.

After months of consideration, the Professional Bowlers Association, in conjunction with the original host center, Bayside Bowl in Portland Maine, made the decision to move the event due to current statewide COVID 19 related restrictions.

The new host location in Centreville, VA will allow the PBA League players to compete in a safe environment - limited to athletes, managers, and essential staff only, with no fans on site.

“This was an extremely tough decision given the inextricable link between the PBA League and Bayside Bowl, and the strong desire for things to feel normal,” said Charlie Mitchell, proprietor of Bayside Bowl. “We tried to come up with a safe way to host the event, but given safety concerns, social distancing guidelines and occupancy limits, there is no way to recreate the BoPo atmosphere with fans this year.”

A silver lining for fans – the PBA League will return to Bayside Bowl in 2021.

General admission ticket holders will receive an email from Bayside Bowl with information to receive a full refund or have their tickets roll over to 2021.

The race to capture the prestigious Elias Cup will begin with a seeding round on September 26 from 10 a.m. – 5 p.m., streamed exclusively on FloBowling, followed by twelve hours of live competition on bowling career with 20 PBA wins (still 16th most today on the all-time list) and a legacy of developing a new teaching method of the game.

Three of those wins are in TBN’s coverage area. His first win was the 1966 Fort Worth Open at Meadowbrook Lanes on East Lancaster Ave. in Fort Worth, defeating Bobby Cooper. Two years later, Pelican Lanes at Veterans Boulevard and Lake Ave. in Metairie, Louisiana was host to his fifth PBA title, a 239 to 179 win over Don Helling for the New Orleans Lions Open. San Antonio’s Wonder Bowl off Austin Hwy. was the site of his 20th and final tour win in a 1979, a 211 to 202 decision over Neil Burton.

His two notable runner-up finishes bookended the 1970’s in the PBA Firestone Tournament of Champions. His 268 title-match effort was the highest losing score on national television for many years to Don Johnson’s legendary 299 game in 1970. His final television appearance was his 224 to 195 loss to George Pappas, who led the 1979 ToC from start to finish.

Most bowlers these days remember Ritger’s Bowling Camps, featuring multi-day format featuring proven teaching methods developed by Ritger himself, holder of a physical education degree from the University of Wisconsin LaCrosse. Kelly Kulick and “friend of the column” Teri Miller Haugh have been two of his lead instructors for over 25 years each.

I’ll have a special JPA Lost Classic on Ritger next week.

The bowling media itself had two big stories last week, both of which you’ll see elsewhere in this edition of TBN. “Bowlers Journal International” was sold to USBC, while its sister magazine, “Bowling Center Management” was acquired by the BPAA, both long-time publications of Luby Publishing.

The other note announced the retirement of the PBA’s long-time media relations directors Bill Vint and Jerry Schneider, both familiar names to those of us covering the sport over the last four decades.

Jerry was the on-site PBA media rep when I covered the CP3 PBA Celebrity Invitational at Bowlero The Woodlands in Houston in 2017 for Bowlers Journal International, the year as I also wrote in these pages H Town saw a historic hurricane, World Series win, and a measurable snowfall all within a three month span.

Unlike other PBA events requiring much less detail, there was a red carpet walk-up before the ESPN taping. Add in all the local television stations, online outlets, and area newspapers wanting to talk with Chris Paul, James Harden, Mookie Betts, and numerous others, getting a spot in media row was a little tricky. But Jerry made sure each of us got what we needed, and that story, one of a dozen or so I penned for BJI, was the cover story several months later.

I’ve written this here before, but it was Bill who was the first to notice my work and present it to a national audience. All I had asked for was a critique and review of a concept I’d had since the mid 80’s. In the third ever JPA in 1998, I premiered the first Top 25 TV Bowling Moments list (sorry it doesn’t have a catchier name or abbreviation). Much to my shock six months later, Bill wrote back he was publishing it in ABC’s quarterly “Bowling” Magazine, turning the radio and TV guy into a nationally published writer. Thank you, Bill, and enjoy your retirement.

Next week, more of my interview with Upper Iowa Head Bowling Coach Dr. Nichole DePaul on her still new school’s bowling program, an update from Sam Houston State Head Coach Brad Hagen on this year’s Kat Klash, and the release of Bob Johnson’s book on Glenn Allison’s 900 series.

Up Your Average

By Susie Minshew

Trying to Make the Ball Do Something

As nice as it would be to think you're in charge, you're not. The lane is the boss and your ball the only ping you have for what the lane wants. To think you can "make" the ball do anything can get you in trouble.

Yes, there are hand and wrists positions that will allow you to change the way the ball interacts with the lane. I'm talking about the notion that if your curving ball isn't, you can "fix" that by really coming around it or jacking up your wrist brace, for example.

Worse, you might note the ball worked in practice and now it doesn't so it must be that you need to do more of something, less of something, move up on the approach a 1/2 inch, speed up, slow down, or change seats in the bowler's area, to get it to act like it did in practice. Thinking that since the ball was drilled to go long and snap that it will always go long and snap is unrealistic. Trying to get the ball to do what you want instead of what the lane wants simply won't work.

Once you've found a zone to play, how long can you play there? Well, that depends on how many people are playing there, what type of equipment they're using, the topography, what type of oil is being used, (the higher the viscosity of the oil, the slicker it will play, for example).

Temperature affects the behavior of oil dramatically. To quote Steve Jensen, "... higher temperatures mean more friction, all else being equal. That is simply another affect of oil viscosity - as temperature increases, viscosity decreases, leading to more friction between ball and lane surface. I think this is partly why the fable about oil 'evaporating' in high temperatures is so prevalent. People notice the lanes have more friction when it's hot and attribute that (incorrectly) to oil evaporating. Really, though, this is caused by the oil viscosity getting reduced due to an increase in temperature leading to higher friction, even though the same amount of oil is applied with the same pattern. The heat vs. viscosity issue can easily be remembered by anyone who cooks. Notice how the cooking oil gets real runny after it is heated, but is much thicker when cool? Same thing applies on a lane."

Oil does not evaporate. If it's cold, the oil won't move as much or as quickly as it does when it's hot. Don't judge the temperature of the center by how hot you are while you're bowling. A more accurate measure of what temperature the oil is responding to would be to check to see if the hundreds of fans watching you bowl are in parkas...

USBC Hall of Famer Dick Ritger dies at age 81

By: Matt Cannizzaro
ARLINGTON, Texas - Dick Ritger, a United States Bowling Congress Hall of Fame member from River Falls, Wisconsin, died Thursday at his home. He was 81.
Ritger was a two-time titlist at the USBC Open Championships, winning Classic Team in 1967 and Classic All-Events in 1977, and was elected to the USBC Hall of Fame in 1984 in the Superior Performance category.
Also a Professional Bowlers Association Hall of Famer (1978), Ritger is one of 16 bowlers in history to win 20 or more PBA Tour titles. His professional bowling career spanned 16 years, starting in 1964.

He twice was named the PBA's Steve Nagy Sportsmanship Award winner (1970 and 1973), and his success as a competitor earned him the No. 14 spot on the list of the 50 greatest players in PBA history, published in 2009.
During the PBA's 60th anniversary celebration a decade later, a panel of historians, bowling writers and longtime PBA Tour competitors reviewed and ranked the organization's top moments, 1-60.
The No. 1 moment was the 299 game rolled by Don Johnson in the title match of the 1970 Firestone Tournament of Champions, which came against Ritger.

Ritger began honing his skills at a young age at his family's 10-lane bowling center in Hartford, Wisconsin, and he was able to balance a busy league bowling schedule while completing his time at the University of Wisconsin-La Crosse (1960), where he double-majored in physical education and recreation.
While he did go on to make a name for himself on the lanes in the 1960s and 1970s, he later became one of the world's most accomplished and recognizable coaches.
His educational background helped lead to the creation of Dick Ritger Bowling Camps, and the teaching of his revolutionary Ritger Method has helped tens of thousands of bowlers over more than four decades.

The timing of Ritger's emergence in the coaching realm also allowed him to reach and teach bowlers through a video series called "The Feelings of Bowling," which was distributed globally.

Both still are the basis of the curriculum at the Dick Ritger

Bowling Camps.

Along with helping bowlers across the United States, Ritger was able to do in-person teaching in more than two dozen countries.

His lifetime of competition and service to the sport also earned him a variety of industry awards, including the World Bowling Writers Distinguished Service Award (1995), John Martino Award for Outstanding Contribution to the Sport of Bowling (1998) and the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America/Dick Weber Ambassador Award (2006).

In 2008, Ritger became the first inductee into the new Bowling Coaches Hall of Fame.

Ritger is survived by his wife of 60 years, Judy; three children, Scott (Amy), Shari (Joe) Hammer and Cyndi; 13 grandchildren; 14 great-grandchildren; brothers Dave (Shirley) and John (Laura), sister-in-law Kathy and their respective families.

A private family memorial mass will be held Sunday, Aug. 30 at 2 p.m. (Central) at St. Bridget Catholic Church in River Falls.

In honor of Ritger's life, the family requests that any memorial gifts be given to St. Bridget's Catholic Church or the River Falls Food Pantry.

Matt O'Grady Wins PBA AMF Woodlawn Lanes Open for Seventh Career Title

By: ddziomba
Baltimore, Md. – Matt O'Grady of Rahway, N.J., compiled an 8-0 match play record and a 15-game total of 3,874 pins to win the PBA AMF Woodlawn Lanes Open on Sunday.

O'Grady, the 2018 PBA Tournament of Champions winner, started the qualifying round slow with three sub-200 games. He quickly found his footing scoring 279, 246, 236, and 279 in the final four games, which catapulted him into fifth place entering match play finals.

O'Grady's 256 average over the eight undefeated match-play games padded his margin of victory to 183 pins over runner-up Samuel Anderson of Woodbridge, Va. Anderson, a non-PBA member, who was competing in his fourth PBA event of his career.

With the win, O'Grady earned $2,200 and extended his winning streak to five consecutive seasons with at least one PBA Regional title. Anderson earned $1,300 as the runner-up. Anthony Pepe of Long Island City, N.Y., who won two weeks earlier in the PBA AMF Perry Hall Lanes Open, earned $1,100 for finishing third, while qualifying leader Brandon Runk of Enola, Pa. finished fourth with $900.

The PBA East Region returns to Baltimore for the PBA AMF Towson Lanes Open on Sunday, September 13.

DELTA

YOUTH BOWLER OF THE MONTH

KAYLA STARR

14, of Crofton, MD, is going into her freshman year at Crofton High School. She recently won the U15 Girls division of the Storm Youth Championship in Indianapolis and $750 in scholarships. Starr has an extremely unique league bowling experience as she flies into Dallas twice a month with her dad to get extra competition and training as part of the USA Bowl youth program.

Hometown Bowling Center: USA Bowl in Dallas, and Ft. Mead Lanes in Maryland

How did you get started bowling? I started bowling at four years old. My dad got a coupon from AMF for Kids to Bowl Free, so he decided we would start bowling. I played other sports, but at age ten, I gave those up and got into competitive bowling.

High Game: 279 and 686 high series.

Favorite Bowler: Danielle McEwan. She works really hard at her game and inspires me to work hard on my game and get better.

Favorite bowling accomplishment: The SYC (Storm Youth Championship) in Indy. We bowled five games on four different patterns, but then it all came down to the last frames of the last game. I was down 19 pins going into the last game, but I was able to make it up and get the win.

What other hobbies do you have? I like to design my own jerseys.

What do you love most about bowling? The competition and travelling gives me the opportunity to meet so many different people. The USA Bowl youth program has been great and it is so competitive with lots of great bowlers.

What are your bowling goals? I would love to be able to compete in college and then go professional after that. Vanderbilt and Nebraska are some of the schools I really like.
